

In the spring of 2003 I took a 14,500 mile car trip around the country. I used the wheather channel on my XM radio to find out what the wheather would be wherever I was heading next.

Not only would I not be able to find out the wheather 300 miles away from the local FM or AM stations, I could be in the middle of nowhere and get perfect reception on my XM.